Wit and Humor.

A homely girl is always willing to admit that her pretty rival hasn't any sense.

—Many a man claims to be nervous when as a matter of fact he is merely ill tempered.

—Some men even like to brag about how much they owe.

—Spending your vacation is another term for spending money.

—Fortunate is the man who never knows when he gets the worst of it.

—When a wise man gets real angry he goes away back and sits down.

—When a man talks of himself he is usually more eloquent than interesting.

—One kind of charity always has a card attached to it.

—No great man needs a brass band to herald his coming.

—Too often a man's success leaves a bitter taste in his mouth.

—Miser loves company—but it is tough on the company.

—The darkest hour is when you haven't any match.

—Do all the work you can; there are lots of lazy men who will do the rest.

That territorial official who keeps a pillow on his office window sill to sit on must have a soft snap.
